A short story

It was a sunny July afternoon. In a small river in the heart of the Cotswolds, a tench was swimming upstream.

“Hello,” he said to a passing manta ray, who looked rather lost.

“Good afternoon,” replied the manta ray. “Isn’t it a fine day?”

“Indeed,” replied the tench.

“Where are you headed?” asked the manta ray.

“Upstream,” said the tench. I hear they have food there that doesn’t have ridiculously unsubtle hooks sticking out of it.”

“But that’s where I was going! I’ve just turned back. The beavers have blocked off the river.”

“Dam.”

Recipe for Chocolate Sponge Cake

Ingredients

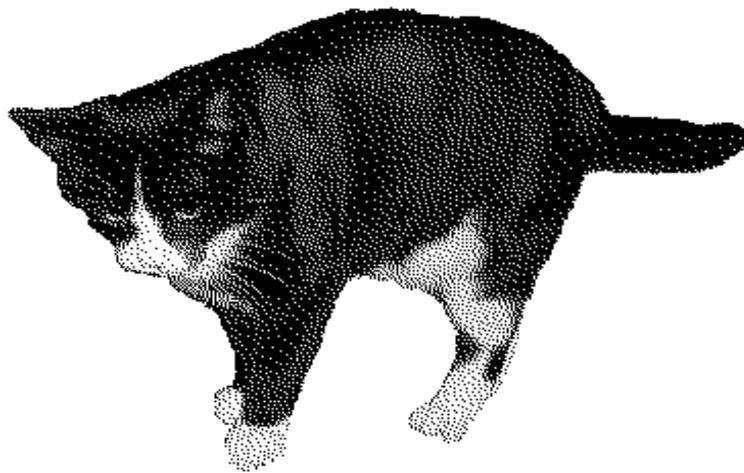

6oz self-raising flour, 6oz caster sugar, 6oz butter, 3 eggs, 1tbsp cocoa, icing sugar, chocolate spread.

Method

Cream the butter and sugar together to form a smooth paste. Beat the eggs into the mixture and add the flour. Add the cocoa and mix until smooth. Pour mixture into two equal-sized greased containers and bake at 180°C (350°F, Gas Mark 4) until cooked.

Put the two halves together, sandwiching chocolate spread between them. Dust with icing sugar. Allow to cool. Serve.
